WE NOMINATE

Eugene Paul Wigner, regarded by many of his fellow scientists as "the most brilliant mind in modern-day science," a Nobel Laureate in Physics in 1963, and a Princetonian for some 35 years, who over the weekend (see Topics of the Town, page 14), became the fourth recipient of the Man-of-the-Year Award of The Greater Princeton Chamber of Commerce and Civic Council. The gathering at the Nassau Inn in his honor was a rare tribute to this 62-year old man of science with a passion for anonymity in that nearly 200 persons, drawn from every element within the diversity which is Princeton's, defied atrocious weather conditions to pay their respects to a beloved neighbor.

In the past decade Wigner, Budapest-born and Berlin-trained, has made a habit of carrying off, year after year, honors for significant achievements. Some three years ago in Vienna he was singled out as the recipient of the 1961 Max Planck Medal of the German Physical Society, an award memorializing the scientist credited with the development of the quantum theory. In 1960 it was The Ford Foundation's Atoms for Peace Award and in 1958 an honor only topped by the Nobel Prize, the Atomic Energy Commission's Enrico Fermi Award, a prize recommended by the AEC's General Advisory Committee, approved by the President of the United States and consisting of a medal, citation and a grant of $50,000.

Wigner, whose contributions to modern physics range from the loftiest heights of theory to engineering designs for giant atomic piles, was one of the handful of scientists who actually witnessed the so-called "birth of the atomic age" in the famous squash court beneath the west stand of the University of Chicago's Stagg Field. It was there, amid World War II's most stringent security conditions, that the first atomic fire on earth was lighted at precisely 3.25 p.m., Central Standard Time, on December 2, 1942. Minutes later, as a softly clicking machine began to buzz, the late great Fermi softly announced: "The reaction is self-sustaining."

Just 10 years later, in talking here in Palmer Physical Laboratory with a New York reporter, Wigner came forth with a characteristic statement that aptly underscored the role the scientist plays in today's world: "Before the war," Wigner commented, "I was an obscure professor who taught classes and wrote articles. I never thought a reporter would come from New York to talk to me. But now? I no longer can talk nonsense and have it go unnoticed; it could cause some serious consequences. For better or worse, people pay attention to what I say. It is a very heavy responsibility."

A naturalized citizen and a devoted Princetonian since coming to the United States in 1930, Wigner, this year on leave at the Oak Ridge Laboratory, Tennessee, in 1938 was named Thomas D. Jones Professor of Mathematical Physics, one of Princeton University's most distinguished professorships and a post reserved for a "creative scientist of high distinction." Some years after World War II, during which he designed the reactors that first produced atomic power on a vast scale for peaceful purposes, he wistfully recalled the soul-searching he and his associates had experienced before and after the development of the atomic bomb: "If we hadn't invented the bomb, another nation would have. We believed that in our hands it would force an effective United Nations — a way to permanent world peace."

For his achievements in moulding this country's present strength — both in physics and nuclear technology; for his forthright approach to matters of urgency, including civil defense; for his deep understanding of the relationships binding science and human values; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

PROFILE OF A YEAR

A Good One. To sketch the profile of 1964 in Princeton, you need the rich green crayon of prosperity. It was a good year, as TOWN TOPICS' quarterly and year-end business index shows. Economists have said that the current period of prosperity, nation-wide, has lasted almost 48 months, —four years—the longest period of peace-time growth in the nation's history, and Princeton's prosperity has been part of that cycle.

In Princeton, even the minus signs can be crossed into pluses: the Township's 32% decline in new housing starts in the year, for example, simply means that the school board can draw a deep breath and present to the taxpayers a budget with the smallest increase in seven years.

Property transfers and their minus signs are another indication of the current stability of the community. But ratables are up, on each side of that Borough-Township line. The Borough reports a 29% increase, the Township 8%. A new office building at 70 Nassau, another at 194 Nassau, a third at 221 Nassau, have a combined value of $1,133,200 at the new 50% rate.

Exact figures for Borough taxes and the meaning of the county's new ruling that all property shall be assessed at 50% of true value, and the effect of Borough revaluation are scheduled for release next week).

Money in the Bank. Each year in Princeton, the dollars in savings accounts tell us. In 1964, there were 12.7% more dollars in savings accounts than in 1963, and that year, there were 11.32% more than in 1962. "Savings" refers to accounts in both banks and the two savings and loan associations, combined into one multi-million dollar figure.

Checking accounts, in asset equilibrium, 1963 over 1962, took a jump of 11.2% in 1964. Loans, up 15% in 1963, were up the same percentage in 1964.

Mortgage money in Princeton is a bit easier to come by than it used to be. The housing pressure is easing and banks and savings and loan associates have more to lend. One of the savings and loan firms had $12.5 million out in mortgages in 1964 opposed to $10.9 million in 1963.

Incidentally, it's always worthwhile to point out the weird fluctuation in both Borough and Township caused by Princeton University's building schedules. In the summer quarter, for instance, the Township recorded $3 million in building permit value. In the quarter just past, the total was only $632,000. Cataclysmic in any other community, in Princeton, merely the record of the new junior faculty apartment building on Lake Carnegie.

New Car in the Driveway. Economist always look to steel and new cars the way weathermen look at barometers. Princeton's steel mills are invisible to the naked eye, but the new car sales are there: up 12.3% in the past year. (For the latest quarterly Business Index, see page 31.)

As a non-industrial community, Princeton reflects rather than produces prosperity. Its residents shared in the nation's $11.5 billion tax cut and passed on their share to Nassau Street businessmen and the savings accounts of Princeton banks.

Some of the tax money got spent — shall we say, elsewhere: Princeton banks sold $2,568,523 in travelers' checks which is 23% more than the previous year. The percentage jump in 1964 was only 11.7% over 1963, so the 23% figure represents quite a leap.

Other money went down the slot in 1964. It was the year of the Great Coin Shortage when Princeton stores put up signs saying "Give us your dimes!"

A Penny for Your Time. Parking meters in the Borough took in $85,138 in pennies, nickels and dimes last year. Vending machines accounted for even more, and owners of vending machines discovered that if they left nickels and dimes too long inside, someone would come with a quick screw-driver and obligingly empty the cash into a pocket. Petty crime, generally, was up in the Borough last year.

But the tax cut was not quite shared by all. In the Borough, the Welfare Department cared for 177 (financial aid cases, in the Township welfare workers had 103. Within a community population of about 22,000 people, these 280 cases are small statistically, but are poignantly large they are otherwise.

The state looks upon Princeton as part of the Trenton area, and the Trenton area had, according to the latest report from the Department of Labor and Industry, the lowest unemployment rate of all the state's major areas— 3.4%.

Employment in Princeton itself was sound. RCA recorded 1250 employees — a gain of 5% over 1963. There are 3,000 at the University and 1,700 at McGraw-Hill, newest giant in the field. Education-al Testing Service has 830 on its regular staff, with 430 who come and go during the year.

A Mouse Bit Me. But not everything in Princeton is money in the pocket. All kinds of things happened here in 1964.

A hamster bite was reported to Borough health authorities in April and a bat bite in May. Last spring, a Persian kitten appeared in the Borough Board of Health to submit himself to rabies treatment. There was a squirrel bite in June.

In December, the Borough sent to the state a dead skunk which had met its end under suspicious circumstances. (Nothing alarming was found.) And there were 38 dog bites.

In the Township, where life can be rural and rugged, a native reported a mouse bite. There was a bat bite, too, and 59 dog bites and one dog's head sent to the state health authorities for rabies study.

In 1964, 124 residents of the Borough had not rabies, but babies. Township residents were more fertile: 196 babies were born to Township taxpayers in 1964.

There were 92 marriage licenses issued in the Borough and 237 marriages performed. Fifteen couples were married in the Township, and 48 licenses were issued to residents.

Health: Body and Mind. Both municipal boards of health perform year - round functions that never get into the news. The Borough, for example, issued 46 milk licenses in 1964 for delivery to homes or retail sale. Licenses to handle food were renewed for 71 different establishments. (If you have 15 seats or less in your eating establishment, you pay $15; more, $25.

There are three Borough boarding houses under the eye of the Board of Health. And the Borough takes its own water samples every three months.

The Township's Board of Health reported in 1964 two cases of meningitis, one case of active tuberculosis and 10 inactive cases, plus one case of food poisoning.

Another public institution, the Princeton public library continued to nourish mind and soul from its overcrowded building on Nassau Street, waiting for the day when it can take its 4,000 books out of the commercial warehouse and 3,000 more from the library basement and line them up on the new library's shelves. Last year, when the library was sure it didn't have another square inch, there were 40,130 books on the same shelves.

In 1964, 15,475 registered users took books from the library; 7,080 of these readers came from the Borough, 7,263 from the Township. There are more non-residents than before: 1,132.

Book circulation during the year amounted to 238,233, of which 153,759 were issued to adults. This is 3,600 more than 1963. Listeners checked out 351 record albums in December alone.

Statistics, they will tell you, can be made to present virtually any kind of story.

Not so in Princeton in 1964. Viewed from any angle, it was a year of growth and pleasant prosperity, but one which still presented a challenge to make this a better community for all in the year just begun.

THE CITZENS SPEAK

Committee Listens. The anguished concern of the average taxpayer occupied Township Committee on Monday night.

In one case, Committee heard John A. Stewart, 158 Terbune Road, protest an assessment for the paving of Dempsey Avenue because he doesn't front on Dempsey, does not believe that the Dempsey paving benefits his property in the least, lost a 30-year old tree during paving operations and was left with what he regards as an unsightly embankment four and one-half feet high.

Acting Mayor William Wilson replied that Dempsey, left unimproved, would have been a liability to the Stewart property in time.

Committeeman John O. Green admitted that assessment problems were indeed difficult, said that Committee had to rely, of necessity, on the "expertise and conscientiousness" of the Board of judgement in this case." Committee approved the Stewart assessment, along with the others, unanimously.

Just We Three. "Unanimously" on Monday night meant 3-0. Mayor Carl C. Schafer and Committeeman Walter Foster were both ill, and Acting Mayor Wilson didn't start things until the 8:15 arrival of Mr. Green, bringing with him a quorum.

"I would like the full committee to consider this," Mr. Wilson said, after a discussion of the Herrontown Road sewer extension assessment.

"I think I've been overcharged about $1100," stated James A. Lahey, 351 Herrontown Road.

Lewis Kraft, potential developer of property belonging to Thurland T. Wilkinson, questioned the assessor's designation of 12 lots. "I wish we could get 12 lots out of that land," he said, "but I'm afraid there are only 11 and that's the number we've submitted to the Planning Board."

The Herrontown sewer assessments were then tabled, to be considered later by a full five-man Committee.

Parking, but Where? Turner Stephens, 27 Leigh Avenue, presented a petition signed by Leigh Avenue property-owners, business and residential, asking a chagge in parking regulations on the street.

Mr. Stephens told Committee that, with lots only 30 feet wide, most houses had no room for a driveway and were forced to park overnight on Race or John Streets or on one side of Birch Avenue because of the 2-6 a.m. parking ban on Leigh.

He also pointed out that Borough residents escaping the Borough ban on overnight parking take up what little there is in the area. He suggested off-street parking provisions or an alternate-side arrangement which would allow parking on one street one night, another street the next night.

"I agree wholeheartedly," stated Township engineer Frank Quinby. "It would make street cleaning much easier."

In addition, Mr. Stephens said, the one-hour parking limitation during the day worked a hardship on business firms and night workers who came home to sleep during the day and got a ticket for parking in front of their own homes.

Mr. Wilson appointed a committee consisting of Mr. Stephens, Mr. Quinby and Police Chief James B. Campbell Jr. to explore solutions.

On Up The Road. Public hearing will be held February 15 on the new ordinance providing $217,200 to realign The Great Road.

The Shade Tree Commission, said Mr. Quinby, plans to spend $1,000 to inoculate elms against Dutch elm disease. Targets will be 100 trees located close to the Borough line, to take advantage of the Borough's inoculation program. Mr. Quinby said that the 100 trees selected would be on Township property. Home-owners, who want to inoculate on their own, may obtain from Mr. Quinby the name of a tree firm which will do the job.

JUNE ISN'T FAR AWAY: Not for the women who plan the Princeton Hospital Fete, anyway. These co-chairmen are already on the job, with committee chairmen appointed, and a new site chosen (Community Park). Mrs. William Adamson (left) and Mrs. Sidney Blaxill will be running the show this year.

TO INSTALL FAVREAU

As Kiwanis President. Romeo R. Favreau, 531 Lake Drive, will be installed as president of the Princeton Kiwanis Club at a dinner-dance to be held Saturday at the Nassau Inn. He will succeed George J. Adriance.

Other Kiwanis officers to be installed Thomas Foody, first vice-president; William Ribellin, second vice-president; William Hilgendorf, treasurer; and John Cotter, secretary.

A vice-president of Electronic Associates, Inc., Mr. Favreau has directed the firm's research and computation division for the past ten years. In this capacity, he is responsible for activities in Princeton and in the Los Angeles branch of the company.

A surprise announcement on Saturday night will be the naming of the "Kiwanian of the Year," cited annually for outstanding service to the community in behalf of Kiwanis. The installation ceremonies will also launch the organization's International Golden Aniversity 50th Year program.

In Princeton, Kiwanis supports the Homemakers, a student loan program, 4H Club and a Youth Service Club at Princeton High School.

KAHN FILES SUIT

Against Borough. A suit testing the constitutionality of the Borough's Witherspoon Street amendment will be filed in Superior Court. The plaintiff is Benjamin Kahn, property owner in the area, represented by attorney David Dietz.

The amendment, passed by the Borough Council on December 8, changes a strip of Witherspoon north of Green Street from "business" to a modification limiting the business use in a building to 40% of the total floor area.

At the June Planning Board meeting, when the amendment was originally considered, attorneys protested that the amendment would be a hardship on property owners because it would keep them from business. In at least one case, the lots are too small to be sold for residential use.

It looked for a while this week as if there would be even more snow underfoot, but a funny thing happened to it on its way to Princeton. It got lost.

SOFTBALL IN '65

Pool Next Year. A public swimming pool cannot possibly be constructed before summer, 1966, the Joint Recreation Board has agreed, but "interim swimming" will probably be provided this summer.

At a meeting held Thursday, the Board asked R. Donald Barr, Recreation Director, and Board member Robert Sinkler to investigate pools, transportation and costs for a 1965 summer swimming project and report back to the Board. Mr. Sinkler ran PAIR's swimming program last summer.

The Board decided, after a lengthy discussion, that exact placement of the pool, its design and capacity cannot be decided on until site preparation has been done in "Section B" of Community Park — the part across Route 206 from the "Section A" now under construction.

In October, the Board asked the Township for $145,000 in capital funds to improve the site, and $13,000 for pool studies. In addition the the swimming pool, "Section B" will have a lagoon, an ice-hockey rink and 10 tennis courts.

Public Meetings Set. Starting Monday, February 8, the Joint Recreation Board will hold monthly public meetings on the second Monday of each month. The first one will be held at 8:15 at Princeton High School.

As soon as weather permits, construction will start on five softball diamonds, a baseball diamond, two handball courts, three basketball courts and a parking lot on the south side of Route 206 where grading and seeding were done in the fall. The parking lot will be on the tract between John and Race Streets.

Work on "Section B" on the north side of Route 206, hinges on acquiring the Harrop property, an acquisition now under negotiation between Thomas B. Cook, Open Space Commission counsel, and Mrs Esther Harrop.

Mr. Cook told the Recreation Board that Mrs. Harrop wants to keep a buffer area to insure her privacy and wants to make sure that trees be allowed to mature, and the land kept in its natural state, without buildings.

To Maintain Buffer. As a condition of sale, she has specified that the area next to her home be reserved for "passive recreation." Negotiations with Mrs. Harrop had reached a point last month which prompted Mr. Cook to obtain a resolution from Township Committee authorizing condemnation proceedings, if necessary.

At Thursday's meeting, the Board passed a recreation budget of $52,130 and forwarded it to Borough Council and Township Committee for approval.

The Board hopes to go ahead with plans for a teenage dance program and tennis instruction this summer, expansion of the winter crafts and basketball programs to include the Borough, a winter teen canteen, evening basketball and volleyball and an adult softball league.

GRAND JURY GETS CASE. In Fatal Accident. The driver of a truck involved in the fatal accident on Friday, November 13, at the corner of Elm and Stockton, has been turned over to the grand jury for causing death by auto. The action was taken Monday night in Borough Court before Magistrate Theodore T. Tansi.

Jesse James Batie, 37, of Trenton had been free on $1,000 bail since the accident which caused the death of Mrs. Burton W. Kendall, 82, of East Orange. Mr. Batie was also charged with careless driving. Mr. Kendall was charged with a stop sign violation.

Mrs. Kendall was a passenger in the car driven by her husband, Burton W. Kendall, 81. The car collided with a tractor-trailer driven by Mr. Batie at the Elm-Stockton intersection, and Mrs. Kendall died an hour later in Princeton Hospital of a massive compound fracture of the skull and brain hemorraging.

In other court action, Magistrate Tansi fined Philip T. Carroll, 338 Nassau, 53, $12 and court costs for driving 37 miles an hour in a 25-mile zone. Mr. Carroll was the victim of a radar trap on January 7 at 7:55 a.m.

Edwin L. Brewer, 34, of Trenton, was fined $200 and costs for driving while he was on the "revoked" list.

News Of The THEATRES

WE OPEN IN PRINCETON

It's Been 35 Years

That's right. It was February 29, 1920, that McCarter opened its doors to an audience for the first time. On February 29, 1965, McCarter will celebrate that occasion by opening its spring repertory season with the first performance of Sheridan's "The Rivals," and it promises to be quite an occasion. The 1920 show was Triangle Club's "The Golden Dog," written by (and starring, as well) a Princeton senior named Joshua Logan. Princeton resident A. Munro Wade, Triangle president that year, also had a leading role in the production.

McCarter Theatre was originally built by Triangle for its own shows. It is now owned, of course, by Princeton University and operated as a regional center for the performing arts.

"Been On to Broadway. Princeton will see its first pre-Broadway opening in seven years when the London comedy, "All in Good Time" comes to McCarter on Thursday, January 28, (7:30 curtain), and Friday and Saturday, January 29 and 30 (8:30 curtain).

Voted "Best Play of the Year" in 1962 by London critics, "All in Good Time" co-stars Sir Donald Wolfit and Marjorie Rhodes who have been directed, for Broadway, by Donald, MeWhinnie.

Miss Rhodes will be re-creating her original role as mother of an unhappily married son, a role which won for her the British accolade, "Best Supporting Actress of the Year."

"All in Good Time" is being presented to American audiences by the new producing team of David Susskind, Daniel Melnick and Joseph E. Levine. It will open in New York at the Royale Theatre on February 3.

ENTER: THE COMPANY

Some Familiar Faces. When the McCarter spring season opens on Saturday, February 20, with Sheridan's "The Rivals," a few familiar faces will greet McCarter audiences.

In the 20 - man company, now rehearsing in Princeton, are such favorites as Ruby Holbrook, James Tripp, Emery Battis, Barbara Caruso, Ronnie Claire Edwards, Clarence Felder, Robert Summers and Mario Siletti. (Mr. Siletti has the director's assignment for "The Rivals.")

In addition, Princeton will see some newcomers. Nicholas Kepros, Michael Flanagan, David Little, Gregory Abels, Jeff David, MacIntyre Dixon and Sandra MacDonald have all been signed for the repertory season.

After the Sheridan comedy, the company will present Aristophanes' "The Birds" in a new English translation by William Arrowsmith. Pirandello's "As You Desire Me" and a double bill consisting of Moliere's "School for Wives," and Chekov's "The Marriage Proposal."

Later on, McCarter will give Shakespeare, chiefly for the benefit of all those high school students who converge on McCarter during every repertory season, but also for subscribers.

THEY'RE "VIRTUOSOS"

Polish Troupe Acclaimed. "Movement, like music, transcends the barriers raised by the multitude of languages. You will rarely see so well-matched a company of silent action-dancing virtuosos."

That's what Howard Taubman wrote in the New York Times about the members of the Polish Mime Theatre who will come to McCarter on Tuesday, February 2, at 8:30.

The Mime Theatre is the first Polish theatrical company to visit the United States since the war. Founded in 1955 by Henryk Tomaszewski, who is still its director and chief choreographer, the troupe made its debut in Wroclaw in 1956 and appeared successfully at the 1962 Festival of the Theatre of Nations, Paris.

For Princeton audiences, the mimes will present "Jaseleka," which presents Biblical incidents interpreted in Polish folk terms. The Labyrinth," "The Woman," "The Nightmare," "Jacob and the Angel" and "The Post Office."

HOT AIR HELPS

System is Versatile, Princeton Fuel Oil, on Alexander Street, is dedicated these days to showing you how versatile a hot-air heating system can be, and you know, they're right!

We hear a lot these days about climate control in the home, and hot-air is about the most efficient way of achieving that control. Think about it for a minute: you have a furnace (and Princeton Fuel Oil hopes most devoutly that it is oil-fired) and a series of ducts to carry the hot air into all the rooms in your house.

Well, to start with, the same system might just as well carry cool air in the summer. Princeton Fuel, as the authorized Carrier dealer for central air-conditioning, can cool you off in no time. The Carrier Climate Center, a splendid 8-by-14-inch satin-finish control panel, allows you to tailor the climate of your house to the desires of your family; in fact, it makes you your own weatherman (inside, anyway!)

AND STOVES, TOO! Princeton Fuel Oil sells about everything there is to sell except the food to put in the oven. Here is Robert Bitzer, sales manager of the firm, with the Caloric (bottled) gas stove—so advanced in design it can make anybody a good cook. (Staff Photo)

To continue: the hot-air system can also be the channel for a humidifying arrangement that eliminates the unhealthy dry air conditions that exist in most homes in the winter. The humidifier costs less than $100, by the way, and pays tremendous benefits in freedom from respiratory troubles.

And to go even farther with respiratory difficulties, Princeton Fuel invites you to consider the electrostatic air cleaner that traps dust, pollen, dog hairs, even cigarette smoke, and leaves you with absolutely pure air to breathe.

Install one of these systems and at the end of the month, flush its wires clean with hot water. You'll be astounded at the amount of black, sooty grime that has been collected in that brief time, and you'll begin to wonder how you ever stayed healthy in the atmosphere you were breathing before.

Not only marvellous for asthma or hay-fever victims, of course, but for housewives, too: a lot less dust to dust off. Princeton Fuel likes to call this electrostatic system the "nose" of your home.

Want to experiment with an oil-fired hot-water heater? Princeton Fuel will rent you one, by the month, so that you can experience its virtues. Rental can be applied to purchase price.

Another rental on the Princeton Fuel Oil list is the Brody automatic hot water heater and incinerator combined into one unit. It will burn wet garbage, large bones, corn husks — even old shoes! — and as it does so, it heats water for you in a 30-gallon tank.

Naturally, you don't have to rely solely on trash burning to heat your water: the incinerator-water heater is oil-fired, and equipped to provide more than enough hot water at low cost.

Princeton Fuel has some very interesting figures on comparative costs of heating water by oil and other means. An oil-fired tank, according to these figures, will produce 30 gallons of hot water in 15 minutes in a 200-gallon tank. In the same 15 minutes in the same tank, gas heat will produce eight gallons and electricity five gallons. In addition, the monthly cost works out to $3.62 for oil; $7.48 for gas and $7.79 for electricity.

With spring buried just beneath the snow, Princeton Fuel Oil has a plan to enrich your lawn and ease your life as a gardener. Fuel oil trucks will be modified to serve as dispensers for the chemicals of the Grace Lawn Service.

Sign up with Princeton Fuel, and the truck will come to your lawn and treat it to liquid fertilizer; crab - grass

January 22, it will. McCarter is offering to its crime fans "Public Enemy," the 1931 classic with James Cagney and Jean Harlow, preceded by "When Comedy Was King," an anthology of scenes from the silent comedies of the early 1900's.

"Public Enemy" will be recalled by aficionados as the film in which Cagney pushes a grapefruit into Mae Murray's face, but critics looking beyond the grapefruit, have called it "the most extraordinary" of the underworld films made in the '30's.

"When Comedy Was King" features every comic who ever sent them rolling in the aisles, from Chaplin to Laurel and Hardy.

PLAYHOUSE AND PRINCE Goldfinger (thru. Jan. 28) The third of the Ian Fleming thrillers to hit the screen is as exciting a travesty on reality as were "Dr. No" and "From Russia With Love." Sean Connery is again James Bond (Agent 007), surrounded by beautiful women and deadly enemies.

The evil genius in this caper is wealthy Goldfinger, played with oily assurance by Gert Frobe. His project is to "knock off" the gold in Fort Knox. The British Secret Service, called into the case because Britain's gold reserves are being depleted, assigns Bond to investigate.

Bond picks up Goldfinger at a Florida hotel, and runs headlong into a crew of criminal specialists, including a Korean karatist and Pussy Galore (Honor Blackman), the beauty who flies lead plane in Goldfinger's private air force. Another of Bond's occupational hazards is Goldfinger's gold-plated girl friend, played by Shirley Eaton.

Ever fearless and alert, Bond barrels about in a sports car more deadly than a tank. It is equipped with machine guns in the grill, blades concealed in the hub caps, a smokescreen device, an oil slick release, bulletproof windows, revolving license plates and mechanism that ejects a passenger right out the roof.

One hair-raising adventure piles on another. Revenge and the double-cross run rampant with those beautiful girls right in there pitching. And James Bond takes his dangers as he finds them.

GARDEN

The Pumkin Eater (through next Wednesday) stars Anne Bancroft, who won an Oscar two years ago for her sensitive acting in "The Miracle Workers." Here she is cast in the unsympathetic role of a highly neurotic woman.

The lady's major problem is that she is over-fond of having children. She has roughly a dozen after three marriages. Her third husband when she achieves pregnancy again, convinces her that an abortion is in order in the interests of her health (she has fits of depression.) She agrees, goes all the way by becoming sterilized, and then discovers that her husband is a philanderer.

So it goes.

Topics Of The Town

year ago, the reduction is about 4c.

The budget itself is higher, but only by six percent: the smallest increase the board has allowed in the last five years. Net amount to be raised by taxes is $2,223,815, an increase of $128,483 over the current year.

The gross budget is $2,525,988, but $303,200 will come to the Township from state and Federal aid programs, tuition and surplus funds.

Copies of the budget and an analysis of it have been sent to all Township households, and a public hearing will be held this Thursday at 8 in the auditorium of Community Park School.

Ratesbles Help. One reason the tax rate is down and the budget slightly up, is that the Township acquired about $9 million in new ratesbles in 1964 to cushion the rise. Another is that the growth rate of the elementary school population is diminishing—as the Citizens' Advisory report predicted that it would—so that the Township it at last freed from expensive building programs.

Richard Pearson, Board president, pointed out however, that a stable or lower tax rate depends entirely on Township willingness to keep present zoning laws. If high-rise apartments are allowed, for example, the picture would radically change.

While the elementary population has been leveling off, the high school population has been increasing rapidly, and the high school problem is one of the most pressing facing the Township Board. Included in the new budget is $10,000 to finance "possible"—and the Board underlines "possible"—survey and research needs if the Township decides to build its own high school.

If merger with the borough system does take place, the money would simply be used to help effect the merger.

As in other years, three policy areas affect the budget. The first is the Board's determination to keep classes at a maximum of 30 pupils and an optimum of 25. The budget represents an attempt to keep lower grade classes as small as space in the schools will allow; in fact, the Board would like to see a 20-class size for first and second grades.

The second area is the salary guide with its program of regular raises for teachers and staff. The third is what the Board refers to as "breadth of school program."

Most budget increases are unavoidable, the Board points out. The Township is committed to about $60,000 in salary raises; about $30,000 is increased high school tuition to the Borough; $13,000 for educable and trainable children; $21,000 to reduce bonded indebtedness and the rest to maintain class size and expand the school program.

The budget calls for one half-time art and one half-time music teacher, a gym teacher, a half-time social worker and three clerks.

A "Community Building." In addition, the Board wants to make the Community Park school library an evening study center, starting next fall, opening it from 7 to 9 p.m. during the school year, and from 9 a.m. to 1 during the summer.

The Board emphasizes that, in preparing the budget, it reviewed all the recommendations of the Citizens' Advisory Committee. "We are making excellent progress in long-range goals," commented Mrs. Richard Schoch, Board member, "and we'll be continually growing; the Citizens' report goes all the way to 1975."

TO GUIDE ADMISSIONS

For Day Schools. Richard C. Griggs has been appointed to the new post of Director of Admissions, Princeton Day Schools.

Thomas B. Hartmann, principal of the Day Schools, said in making the announcement, that the problems of admitting students will become "more than twice as complex "with the merger of Miss Fine's and Princeton Country Day. Entrance examinations will be held Saturday, February 13.

There will be male students in the high school grades for the first time, and their presence will create problems in sectioning and scheduling classes. Both these factors affect admissions, Mr. Hartmann pointed out.

Inquiries about admission of boys to the upper grades have doubled in recent years, Mr. Griggs said, although Princeton Day Schools has not actively sought applications. Originally, the school planned to add one grade of boys each year as the boys moved up through the ranks. However, because so many parents have expressed an interest in the school, it is possible that boys will be added at other grade levels next year.

"An abundance of applications is every admissions director's dream," Mr. Griggs said, "and I am delighted to see this interest."

An instructor in mathematics at Princeton Country Day since 1952, Mr. Griggs has been chairman of PCD's admissions committee for the past seven years.

REGISTRATIONS OPEN

Seventeen children are in the group under the direction of Mrs. Edgar Smith, who has taught at the school since it first opened. GOTTA LOAD THIS SLED WITH SNOW: Sarah Woodworth (left) holds the reins while Andrew Ellis dumps on the snow. Both are undergraduates at the Princeton Cooperative Nursery School. Membership applications are now being received by the school. See Topics of the Town (Staff Photo)

Her program will stress the "discovery appproach" towards developing awareness of nature.

She also has available a demonstration program for teachers and group leaders, showing new teaching techniques as well as economical ideas for educational projects and exhibits.

MAN OF THE YEAR: Dr. Eugene P. Wigner, Princeton resident and Nobel Prize winner, was named this community's "Man of the Year" by the Chamber of Commerce.

tor's office reminds residents that there is a 50-cent fine for each month that the owner is late in purchasing a license.

NOBEL WINNER NAMED

Wigner Is "Man of Year."

Eugene P. Wigner, who shared the Nobel Prize in physics in 1963, was named "Man of the Year" by the Princeton Chamber of Commerce at the Chamber's annual dinner held Saturday at the Nassau Inn.

Dr. Wigner was cited "in recognition of his achievements as a creative scientist, his elevating humility and his deep understanding of the relationships binding one man to another." The citation was read by Dan D. Coyle, a director of the Chamber, who served as master of ceremonies at the dinner.

The speaker for the member-ship dinner was Governor Richard J. Hughes, who outlined for the 180 Chamber members and guests the gist of his messages to the legislature, particularly his concern about New Jersey's needs in education and institutional care and his belief that a broad-base tax is necessary.

Arthur N. Curtiss, manager of administration for RCA Laboratories, was installed as president of the Chamber, succeeding Alan Frank of Langrock's.

Mr. Curtiss, after his installation, presented the Chamber's "President's Penny Award" to Governor Hughes "for having taken most effective action relating to the welfare of New Jersey on all occasions."

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE HONORS GOV. HUGHES: New Jersey's chief executive, Gov. Richard J. Hughes, was given the Chamber of Commerce "Penny Award" for constant supervision of the State's best interests. With him at Saturday's annual dinner are Arthur N. Curtiss (left), who was installed as Chamber president, and Alan G. Frank, who completed three years as the service organization's head.

NEW DISTRICT

Township Ponders. Should the Township's populous Election District 5 be divided in two? Or should all nine Township districts be examined and, possibly redrawn?

The question arises because Mercer County has received a request for the division of District 5 into two. The district has more than 1,000 voters and is so unwieldy that workers in both parties find it difficult to handle.

However, division presents a problem or two. District 5 is in the Shady Brook area, bounded by Snowden Lane, the Princeton-Kingston Road, the Borough line and the line separating the Township from Middlesex County. There is no one sharp, geographic feature that could be a boundary, and there is almost no building that could be used for a polling place.

Township officials also point out that, since other districts have almost 1,000 registrants, it might be more sensible to reexamine all nine and perhaps do a major redrawing job.

With the Joint Municipal Operations report due very soon, the Township has decided to put the matter aside for a year or two and see what develops.

COLOR YOU "TRUE BLUE"

League's Coloring Book. "Color the legislature shrinking violet," directs the League of Women Voters in the new leaflet advocating passage of an income tax for New Jersey.

The little six-inch coloring book will be distributed on January 28 and 29 in Princeton, and on Monday in Trenton to members of the state legislature, urging passage of an income tax. Several hundred members of the League will trek to Trenton to present the books to Governor Hughes.

Back To School

The 10-week winter term of the Princeton Adult School begins this Thursday. Last-minute registration for the few courses remaining open may be made at 7:30 p.m. Classes begin at 8 p.m.

President James I. McCord of Princeton Seminary inaugurates the "Living Religions in Today's World" series with a discussion of "Christianity in World History." There will be an outline of the entire series and a suggested list of paperback books. Individual admissions may be purchased for the lectures.

Parking is limited, so early arrival is recommended.

Richard J. Hughes and members of the legislature.

"This is a New Jersey public school on double sessions," states the caption below a cartoon of a bulging school. "New Jersey is 46th among the states in per capita state aid support of public schools. Color the school 'olive drab'."

"These are cars and trucks waiting in New Jersey traffic," reads another cartoon caption. "New Jersey has the highest traffic density in the nation and only Hawaii spends less on highways and roads, per person, than New Jersey. Color the drivers' 'apoplectic purple.'"

A rocket to the moon illustrates "property tax going up. New Jersey has one of the highest property taxes per capita in the nation. Business property taxes are driving industry away. Color the skyrocketing tax 'dangerous red,' color the tax-payer 'black and blue.'"

Annual Mid-Winter Furniture Sale

Some people spend their lives tasting tea. They know tea. Other people spend their lives buying, selling, examining and studying furniture. They know furniture. They can't help it. Furniture is their life. They eat, breathe, sleep and talk furniture. That is why every piece of furniture on MANNING'S famous floors has passed this test: Is it in good taste? Is the workmanship up to the MANNING standard? Are the materials top notch? Is it a good value This incessant editing of the whole furniture market is your protection. The MANNING staff is made of sound, seasoned furniture men who take a personal interest in your problems. They are invisible when you don't want them . . . and right at your elbow when you do want them. The way to buy furniture . . . even in a big MID-WINTER SALE . . . is never to be pressured into a quick purchase. The only way to buy furniture is to browse leisurely on the floors of a store which offers exquisite taste at moderate prices. Because, as we say, "you'll find it costs no more from a fine store."

And MANNING'S knows that good taste in fine furniture is never the extreme. Neither an antiquated concoction of frills and curves . . . nor a bleak space-age set of triangles and squares. MANNING'S believes that a house should put its arms around you. That is why we like to break the spartan sternness of contemporary design with the lovely softening graciousness of traditional. Seldom will you find the flossiest, glossiest furniture lines reduced. But in MANNING'S great Mid-Winter Sale, you will find all of these famous makes offered at rare savings. Take HERITAGE or WHITE or HARDEN; take PENNSYLVANIA HOUSE or HENREDON . . . and you have furniture that's hard to beat . . . and harder to find on sale.

Also an essential part of any home decoration are carpets, slipcovers, draperies and expert advice on all home interior decoration. Manning's fills this growing need for complete home enjoyment. Be sure to include these valuable assets when buying furniture.

THIS DREAM WILL COME TRUE: Lucille Toto (left) and Kathleen McGuire, students at Cedar Crest College, Allentown, Pa., interrupt their studies to think of what the new $720,000 dormitory will mean in the way of welcome "firsts" at the 97-year old liberal arts college. It is scheduled for completion next September. Miss Toto is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Toto, 13 Harris Road; Miss McGuire's parents are Mr. and Mrs. F. T. I'M DR. MALONE"

Got a Wallet? Two Princeton Hospital physicians were operated on last Tuesday afternoon for removal of the wallet. Unfortunately, the operations were successful.

A sneak-thief passing himself off as "Dr. Malone" whenever he was challenged, strolled into the first-floor doctors' lounge at Princeton Hospital and stole a wallet belonging to Dr. Charles H. Place from Dr. Place's locker. The wallet contained a $50 travelers' check and the usual personal papers.

Then "Dr. Malone" went upstairs and into the second floor lounge used by doctors in the maternity section. Here he took a wallet belonging to Dr. William F. Besser containing $10 in cash and some credit cards. The cards were later mailed back to Dr. Besser from Baltimore.

The thefts were reported to Borough police by Clarence Wycoff, hospital security officer. Nurses who were puzzled by the unfamiliar face reported that the intruder identified himself as "Dr. Malone."

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

For UF Survey Unit, The Princeton area United Fund is seeking 24 men and women to serve on its policy-making Citizens' Survey Committee. The group will evaluate the Fund-Council survey which has been in progress since last September.

According to Mrs. Margaret Sprout, survey director, the job description calls for knowledgeable, objective citizens, whose prestige is such that their views will be respected, and who are willing to devote considerable time to long range planning for health, welfare and recreation needs.

Suggestions for membership are sought in all 13 municipalities of the Fund area. United Fund headquarters is at 4 Green Street.

FUND DRIVE STARTS

For Planned Parenthood. A drive for funds has been announced by the Planned Parenthood Association of the Mercer Area, which maintains two clinics for county residents in Trenton.

As a result of the campaign last year, the association raised enough money to open the second center, and hire an additional registered nurse who is also a trained social worker.

With the money to be raised in 1965, association directors hope to schedule more clinic sessions each week, extend cooperation with Mercer hospitals and expand the association's services to reach more people.

Mrs. Russell Fraser, clinic director, announced this week that there were 2,000 more clinic visits in 1964 than 1963. Checks for the fund may be mailed to Mrs. Amos Eno, Quaker Road.

DINNER-MEETING SET

By YWCA, The 45th annual membership meeting of the YWCA will be held at 6:15 p.m. Thursday, January 28. Mrs. Arthur Link is chairman, and Mrs. George Geary, co-chairman.

A play, "Who Knows Mrs. Powers," is planned for 8:15. Cast members include Mrs. Charles B. Smith, Mrs. David N. Headley, Mrs. Otto Piper and Miss Sheila Hatcher.

Reservations will be accepted at the YWCA office until Tuesday. The public is invited to attend.

BALLET TEACHER: Roles from the classical ballet and advanced ballet techniques will be taught at the Aparri School of Dance this spring by Henry Danton, dancer and teacher.

APARRI ADDS TO STAFF

Henry Danton Here. The renowned dancer and teacher, Henry Danton will join the Aparri School of Dance two days a week during this spring term, teaching technique and classical variations.

Nine Aparri students have been chosen for the two classes. Dancers who are not Aparri students are invited to register for the "variations" class in which Mr. Danton will teach extracts from the classical repertoire to students who are sufficiently advanced to undertake the roles.

Last spring, three of Mr. Danton's Aparri pupils appeared in excerpts from "Swan Lake," "Carnaval," "Coppelia" and "Sleeping Beauty," in an Aparri workshop program.

Now an instructor in ballet at Sarah Lawrence and a faculty member of Ballet Arts in New York, Mr. Danton has danced in the Sadlers Wells company (now the Royal Ballet) as partner to Margot Fonteyn and Moira Shearer. He has also danced with Zizi Jeanmaire and, on a tour of the United States, with Mia Slavenska.

He is known especially for his interpretation of classical roles, not only in the ballets named above, but also in "Nutcracker," "Aurora's Wedding," "Sylphides," "Giselle" and "Spectre de la Rose." He has danced in the Ballet de Paris de Roland Petit, the Ballets des Champs - Elysees and the Metropolitan and International Ballets of London.

Mr. Danton will be in Princeton for his Aparri classes on Wednesday and Friday afternoons. Inquiries should be addressed to Mila Gibbons, Aparri School of Dance, 217 Nassau, 924-1822.

ART LECTURES SET

By Museum Staff. The Princeton Art Association is sponsoring three lectures by Metropolitan Museum of Art staff. The series will be given at 8 p.m. at the Stuart Country Day School, The Great Road.

El Greco will be discussed on Friday, January 29, by Mrs. Blanche R. Brown, senior lecturer at the Museum since 1942. She is the author of a number of articles and book reviews, as well as two books, "Ptolemaic Paintings and Mosaics," published in 1957, and "Five Cities: an Art Guide to Athens, Rome, Florence, Paris and London," published last year by Doubleday.

The work of Peter Breugel the Elder is the subject of Alan Rosenbum's talk on Friday, February 5. In 1962, he received a Fulbright grant for study home. He has been with the Metropolitan Museum since 1964.

The third lecture, "After Impressionism: Cezanne, Gauguin and Van Gogh," will be given by Miss Margaretta Salinger, research associate.

She is co-editor of the catalogues of French, Flemish and Italian paintings and the author of a book on flower pieces in European painting.

Series tickets are available to association members for $4, and to non-members for $5. Individual tickets are $1.50 (members) and $2.00 (non-members). Further in formation is available from Mrs. James E. Burke, 158 Springdale Road.

MUSIC CLUB TO MEET

Concert Scheduled. The Princeton Music Club will meet next Wednesday at 8:30 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Spanel, 344 Stockton Street. The program will include Beethoven's Sonata No. 10 for violin and piano, to be played by Joseph Kovacs and Malcolm Peyton.

Robert E. Bonette, 59 Meadowbrook Drive, has been informed by Township School Board secretary Norman Anderson that he is ineligible to run for the board because he has lived in Princeton Township only 18 months. The required period is two years.

Mr. Bonette had filed for the one-year term available on the board, and would have run against Charles Jaffin, 532 Rosedale Road. The withdrawal of Mr. Bonette means that Mr. Jaffin automatically has the one-year term.

OPINION INVITED

By Junior Museum. The general adult membership of the Princeton Junior Museum will meet at 8:15 Wednesday, January 27, in Borough Hall to discuss the directions the Museum should take in the next few years.

According to Sheldon Judson, board president, attendance at the museum during its first years has surpassed its sponsor's expectations "by a factor of three or four." More than 500 school children have visited the American Indian exhibit this fall during school hours, and visitors during the weekends have often numbered in the hundreds.

All interested are invited to the coming meeting. Membership dues will be accepted at that time. The museum is supported by voluntary contributions, including membership dues from individuals and organizations.

YMCA WEEK SET

Special Programs Planned. A. C. Reeves Hicks, president of the Princeton YMCA, has announced a series of special events marking YMCA Week beginning Sunday. The community is invited to take part.

YMCA Sunday will be recognized in the area churches. A family ice skating party is scheduled Sunday from 5:30 to 7:30 at the Lawrenceville School rink, sponsored by the Y's Flying Fish.

The annual baseball dinner of the Midget and junior teams will be held Monday. The Scuba Club is sponsoring the underwater film, "Man Looks to the Sea," on Wednesday January 27. Stanton Waterman will narrate.

On Saturday, January 30, the Ranger Club will serve its annual Lumberjack Pancake Breakfast from 7 to 11. An aquatic show is planned for 2 p.m., and a father-and-son Indian Guide swim, bean supper and pow wow begins at 5. There will be a swimming meet between Princeton and Jersey City YMCA at 7. A Tiger Town Teen dance is scheduled for 9-midnight.

Programs in the planning stage include chess and ping pong tournaments, a Mr. and Mrs. Club program, a family camp weekend and a scuba diving exhibition.

Men and boys, and families with Dad in attendance, are invited to be guests in the Y pool each day. For a complete list of events, see page 29.

MISS COMPTON TO SPEAK

On Herrontown Woods. Dorothy Compton, science teacher for the Borough Elementary schools until her retirement, will be the guest speaker at the monthly dinner meeting of the Soroptimist Club of Princeton. The dinner will be held at the Princeton Inn on Tuesday.

What Every Woman Should Know About Permanent Waving.

by Jberi Redding

(Cont'd. from last week)

In Permanent Waving, the step called Neutralising not only shrinks the hair, but it also "ties in" the curl by forming "bonds" or "chains" inside the structure of the hair that hold the hair proteins in their new positions and forces the hair to remain permanently curly. Neutralizers are oxidizing agents and consist mostly of Bromates and Peroxides. The peroxide neutralizer has been almost completely replaced by the Bromate and, today, over 90% of all neutralizers are made of Bromates.

Some Bromates because of their oxidizing can also be destructive to the proteins of the hair, if left on the hair for too long a period following the action of Thioglycolic Acid in permanent waving.

The intensive oxidising power of Bromates is readily seen when a Bromate solution permanent wave neutralising lotion is used to saturate a rag or paper and after saturation, is thrown on a fire. A terrific explosion occurs at this time. Therefore, it is of utmost importance that these neutralizers (Bromate solutions), not be left on the hair for a period longer than five minutes. To do so invites further dryness, dullness, frizziness, brittleness and even breakage of the hairshaft.

In other words, in the case of ordinary Acid-type permanent waves, the permanent should be given by a highly competent, well-trained and greatly experienced Hairdresser who has alloted the TIME necessary for constant surveillance, or WATCH OUT for damaged hair, dry, frizzy, steel-wool shredded - wheat - looking hair. (To be continued next week.)

IT'S NICE IN THEORY, BUT: Regulate the sale of guns to individuals? Larry Tokash implies it's nice in theory, but, he says, you can't prevent someone from obtaining a gun if he really wants one. (Staff Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: Since President Kennedy's death, there have been proposals to regulate or license the sale of firearms to individuals. What is your opinion of such legislation?

Where asked: Nassau Street.

Larry Tokash, Somerville, co-owner of Princeton Airport: I would say that the sale of guns doesn't have to be regulated any more than it is now. If you want to buy a rifle, you must be 21 or have the signature of your parents or guardian. To buy a sidearm, you must have written permission from your local chief of police. It is his responsibility to determine if you are stable enough to own a pistol. If a crackpot wants to get a gun to kill someone, he'll get it one way or another. There's no way to prevent a person who is determined to get a gun from getting one.

Mrs. Michel Furic, 24 Charlton Street, housewife: My opinion is guns shouldn't be sold without a license. In France, where I am from, you have to have a license or some sort of special permission from the police to get a guo. It is impossible to buy one without them. I think this would be a good system for the United States to follow. If anybody can go out and buy a gun, then anybody can go out and fool somebody if he is angry or nervous.

Rev. Dr. Christy Wilson, 38 Alexander Street, Presbyterian minister: I'm very much in favor of regulating the sale of firearms. They are dangerous not only for those who have evil purposes but also because of the accidents that result from them.

David Hapgood, 22 Cedar Lane, free lance writer: I think they should be banned entirely. I know there is a Constitutional problem involved but guns only cause danger. They are of no conceivable use to private citizens.

Herold Jones, Columbus Boychoir, superintendent of buildings and grounds: Absolutely in favor. I think they should be sold. I don't think you should be able to walk along the street and purchase a gun from some store just as you would a loaf of bread.

Louis Lands, 12 Regnis Row, educator: I'm very emphatically in favor of some kind of restriction because I think there are too many irresponsible and impulsive people around who can buy guns.

Trd Barthold, Nassau Street, laborer: I think it should be that way. I feel youths and teenagers shouldn't be sold guns at all, even if they have their parents' consent. When we lived in Philadelphia, it was terrible. Teenagers killing . . . there were too many guns. I don't know where they got them. They should be regulated in all the states, not just a few. There is too much killing. I've already been approached in Princeton by a teenager to buy blanks for a gun he had, but I flatly refused.

David G. Cassel, Graduate College, physics: Definitely. I think firearms should be regulated and licensed. They are dangerous and I feel they should be regulated just as automobiles are dangerous and are licensed.

Mrs. Sheena McKillop, 75 Harrison Street, housewife: I think it's a good idea. I think its ridiculous that people can send an order by post to places like California and receive firearms. I think it's perfectly ridiculous, I really do.

David Harwi, Blair Hall, Princeton University junior: Constitutionally, a person has the right to bear arms, and I don't see how you could limit this, considering hunting is a sport. How can you limit the sale of sporting equipment?

Charles Neider, 24 Southern Way, writer: I think the right to bear arms is an essential part of American freedom — it's guaranteed by the Constitution — and I wouldn't want to see it lightly taken away from Americans. I'm not a hunter myself, but, on the other hand, I recognize the importance and the right to deal with firearms. I think one reason why we Americans have been so successful in defending our country in war is due to the acquaintance our youngsters and young people have had with firearms. But as for high powered weapons indiscriminately sold through the mails, that would be another story and I find some sort of supervision would be desirable.

H. T. Gilstrap, Trenton, head houseman, Ivy Club, Prospect Avenue: I think it would be a wonderful thing. Selling guns to people not knowing whether they are criminals or anything doesn't make sense. It really doesn't. It could be my child or anybody's who could be shot and maybe killed just because people have easy access to guns.

Conrad DeMester, Princeton Theological Seminary, student: I think something like this would be hard to regulate, especially with the number of firearms now available. I think if somebody wanted a gun, they would still be able to get one. As an example, pistols are regulated in certain states and yet people still seem to have them. It would be a serious problem how to regulate them, especially if we want to keep our freedom to hunt. Taking away a freedom doesn't alleviate the problem I would suggest something along the line. Instead of taking guns away from people, exert an effort to teach the individual the responsibility that goes along with their use. Work with the individual, teach him, so he won't use them for destructive purposes

It CAN Happen to You.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

In connection with a near-tragedy on January 9, I should like to give thanks in various directions, and also some advice.

I was driving down Bayard Lane towards the State Highway. It was late dusk and raining. I was well within the speed limit.

Suddenly something white loomed up in the road ahead of me. It was a man's head, looking at my oncoming headlights. I slammed on the brakes and prayed. My car went into a straight skid; the front bumper passed over him; the front wheels stopped inches short of him.

He had evidently slipped while stepping on the curb across the street, had fallen, had stunned himself. As he was wearing a dark overcoat, I should not have seen him in time if he hadn't raised his head. Happily, his injuries were minor, and he was discharged from Princeton Hospital two days later.

Now to the thanks: first, to the two young ladies who opened their door to me in Skanworth so that I could call the police, though I could not have been a reassuring sight at that moment.

Second, to the Borough Police, who arrived promptly and took over efficiently. Third, to the Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad, who appeared on the scene almost by the time we had jacked up the front end of my car, and who extricated the man and had him off to the hospital with obviously professional care.

Next, the advice, which is so obvious most of us tend to ignore it. To pedestrians: there is a reason for official advice about crossing roads only with the lights, not in the middle of a block, however long, and especially not on a heavily traveled road like Bayard Lane with a high speed limit. If the vehicle coming down the hill had been a tractor-trailer rather than a medium sized sedan, there would have been an additional statistic on traffic fatalities.

To my fellow-drivers: Never think it can't happen to you. Never think you are prepared for all eventualities.

Certainly you don't expect to find a body in the road, in the direct path of your car, but there may be one, and thirty years of accident-free driving won't help you one little bit at that moment, unless such a record shows that you have quick reactions. But even quick reactions don't help when you've done all you can do, and realize your car is not going to stop quite in time.

Third, a question addressed to the appropriate authorities: is not a 30 to 35 m.p.h. speed limit rather high for a street which is not only residential, but also has on it a school for young children, a private home, and a housing development?

Everybody knows that tractor-trailers and indeed many private cars are doing closer to 45 than 35 by the time they reach the bottom of the hill. I don't suppose anyone saves more than ten seconds in the stretch between Nassau Street and the State Highway, staying within the speed limit or even exceeding it. That saving is not worth a human life.

Just to make the record clear, I am not a chronic improver of Bayard Lane. It was Mr. and Mrs. David W. Blair who led the fight for the useful stop-light at Avalon Place. After this nightmare experience, I should like to carry on their fight, further down the hill.

DAVID H. BLAIR, JRr
343 Jefferson Road

Editor's Note: TOWN TOPICS thanks to Mr. Blair for thoughts all drivers should find helpful. Incidentally, the Borough has no control over the speed limit established for Bayard Lane, inasmuch as it is a portion of Route 206 and therefore under jurisdiction of the State.

A Sincere "Thank You."
To the Editor of Town Topics:

I wish to extend my sincere "thank you" to the police, fire department, and volunteers of Princeton for their great assistance during my call for help last Wednesday night at midnight.

Awakened by my small dogs tugging and barking, I found my house filled with thick smoke. I quickly felt my way to the door and to a speedy neighbor who called the police.

Two officers arrived and seeing the smoke and flames in the kitchen called the fire department. Shortly, they learned the cause of the fire and put it out, but it was too late to cancel the alarm put in.

In a matter of minutes, we had six fire engines and five to ten cars of volunteers who left their homes to help. I gave you a great feeling to see what an efficient police and fire department we have here in Princeton.

I'm sorry that they had to come out on such a job as it was just a burning pan where I fell asleep while cooking, but possibly many lives could have been lost had it not been for such co-workers. Again I say "thank you" to the two police officers, the fire department volunteers and my neighbors for their hospitality while the smoke left my house and for their tremendous job during my call for help.

MRS. PHILLIP HULL
380 Alexander Street

Unknown Benefactor Thanked.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

I would like to thank a very kind lady through your Mailbox column.

This morning while trying to take my car to the service garage, I had to pull to the side of the road a number of times to let the radiator cool down, as it was frozen. While I was waiting at the intersection of Jefferson Road and Route 206, a lady in a dark green car stopped to ask if I needed help.

I told her the problem; and she said she would stop at the garage and tell them where I was, so their truck could come. The garage man had told me to bring the car out, so they knew I was on the way. Some 20 minutes later, and one stop later, the tow truck came and pulled me to the garage.

Whoever the lady was, I wish to express my thanks for her kind act. Of the many cars who passed, including two police cars, this woman was the only one to stop.

"THINGS HAVE CHANGED"

Parents' Workshop Set. "We're going through this terrible business of college applications," a Pennington mother said a few weeks ago. "I pity you!" said her friend.

According to Thomas Seraydarian, guidance director for Princeton Borough schools, "It needn't be as bad as all that!" He has planned a series of four workshops for parents of high school juniors, beginning Wednesday, January 27, to brief them on college admissions. The sessions will be held at 8 p.m. on succeeding Wednesdays in the high school cafeteria.

"Parents hear a lot of half-truths and untruths," Mr. Seraydarian says. "Things have changed since they went to college. Some parents have never gone to college . . .

"Each year we have anxious parents who rush into the office a day or two before college boards asking, 'Is it too late to sign up before the tests?' Then we have to tell them that this should have been taken care of previously with ETS.

"There are deadlines for admission applications now . . . and there are different kinds of admission practices."

Specific Approach. The College Admissions Workshops will open with Richard Pearson, president of the College Entrance Examination Board and head of the Township school board, reviewing "Trends and Practices in College Admissions."

On February 3, Dr. Hans Rosenhaupt, national director of the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation, will talk on "Where to Find a Quality Education."

A variety of topics will be covered at the "working workshops" on February 10: admissions practices, kinds of applications, deadlines, admissions testing, calendar of test dates, which tests to take, how to prepare for tests, student responsibility in college admissions, visiting colleges, private schools, publications from colleges and sources of information.

"Financing a College Education" will be discussed by Rexford G. Moon Jr., director of the College Scholarship Service, on February 17, and Mrs. Lewis V. Thomas, college counselor at the high school, will speak on local scholarship programs.

New Colleges. "We want to introduce colleges parents may not know about," Mr. Seraydarian comments. "I don't want parents to think that their choices are limited, or that the process of application is an unpleasant experience.

"We had one boy tell us that if he didn't go to one particular college, he wasn't going to any college. Another student applied to three, but he planned to go to prep school if the college he preferred didn't accept him."

A youngster last year expected the guidance department to find him a college. "This was a very uncomfortable position for us, because we were going to have to put ourselves in his shoes and figure out what he'd like!" He added that sometimes parents and their children don't know the difference between Harvard and Monclair State College.

Pilot Program. Mr. Seraydarian has tried out the workshops on a group of parents ("unfortunately, they were all mothers. We don't see the fathers as much as we'd like.") The evening workshops will be the first in Princeton on a comprehensive scale. Another series is planned for next year.

POSTAL EXAM SET

For Rural Carrier. The Civil Service Commission has announced an opening for a rural carrier in the Princeton Post Office. Deadline for applications is February 9.

According to John L. Dilworth, acting postmaster, applicants must have lived within the delivery area of the office for one year prior to the closing date of the examination. Eighteen is the minimum age; persons over 70 may be considered only for a temporary appointment of one year.

All qualified applicants will receive consideration without regard to race, creed, color or national origin.

Further information may be obtained at the Princeton Post Office. Application forms must be filed with the U. S. Civil Service Commission, Washington D. C., 20415, postmarked not later than the closing date.

Rosewater wasn't witchcraft!
TRITLE'S ORIGINAL GLYCERINE and ROSEWATER
YOUR CHOICE
$1.39
8 oz. Jar—Cream
12 oz. Bottle—Lotion
True, in Great Grandmother's days, old women did put rosewater on their faces to make them look younger. This was considered witchcraft. When mixed with glycerine the rosewater and glycerine mixture quickly made skin softer, smoother and drove dryness away. Now, TRITLE'S Original Solidified Glycerine and Rosewater is much more effective than the liquid mixture Great Grandmother used. Greaseless, too. It transforms unhappy, aging, lined skin into a fresh feeling, more youthful looking complexion. Soothes and smooths rough hands almost instantly. There is also a new cream lotion that's greaseless, too. They are both delightful. Your choice, cream or lotion. Special offer: Regular $2.00 jar or bottle, $1.39 pl. tx.

FRESH-BAKED BREAD

Try the Rye. Fresh - baked bread right from a country kitchen is almost irresistable, especially on a frosty winter day. Now at the Food Mart on Witherspoon Street, you can buy "Mrs. Dornin's Bread," baked by Mrs. Dörnin and her husband in the kitchen of their Bucks County home near Quakertown.

Twelve different kinds come from the Dornin ovens, but not all at once. Stop at the Food Mart from time to time, and see what the special is for the day.

Honeybutter while is a tempter, so is the soft, mild party-style rye. If you're starwart enough, you'll want to work on the pumpernickle — "hard as a rock!" — Mr. Dornin says with delight. It's good, solid European bread, as you can tell.

Onion bread is another Dornin favorite, but they are proudest of their stone-ground whole wheat. You hear a lot about stone - ground grains, and we weren't sure just what the term ment until Mr. Dornin explained. In stone grinding, the flour is not heated, as it is in ordinary grinding, and this means that the wheat germ itself is preserved and everybody benefits.

For a particular occasion, try the Moravian sugar loaf, in the round cottage style. The Dornins make it by punching holes in the round loaf and stuffing them with a cinnamon-sugar mix. It's Pennsylvania Dutch.

All this bread is hand-made. Only machine in the Dornin kitchen is a great big mixer for stirring it all up.

SEW A SOUFFLE

Wool Is That Light. A souffle of a spring wool suit is yours if you can sew, and if you can't, Gretchen's Fabrics will help. The wool at Gretchens is from France, blended in some cases with fur fibre and orlon, and the colors and textures will make you melt with delight.

A pale pink and white mohair-wool-orlon blend, $10.50 a yard, will make a strawberry soda of a suit, and the pale lemon and cream, with big, fuzzy, blurred checks, will make that souffle we mentioned above, ($12 a yard).

Great big stitches of coral, brown, cream and pink make a nubby wool like tweed, seen under a microscope. Grey, pink, tan and charcoal checks make a wool that is almost sheer. Quiet souls, who like more restraint can select the grey-green wool with its minute rose and deep green stitch, smooth finished and soft as whipped cream.

So are those printed challis, soft. One is an Aztec all-over print, closely patterned with geometrics in Mexican shades. Another has tongues of red flame lapping a cream background. A French wool, too basketweave to be a challis, is oyster white with a bordee of narrow navy and powder stripes. Scotland contributes a sheer and supple wool done in small houndsteeth of black, olive and tangerine.

"Naked" woolens, new this spring, are rich and sheer. One rack at Gretchens' has bolt after bolt in ivory, raspberry, powder, pink champagne, coral, peacock, apple. The "naked" adjective simply means that these woolz are very light, sometimes with an open basketweave, sometimes with the fineness of a paisley shawl. In fact, one pattern does feature a dark paisley.

But all is not wool at the shop on Route 130. Loops of black quarter-inch ribbon sewn on white satin show about that. Or the cloque in white, its puckers reminding you of three - dimensional moire. Brilliant silks spill softly out of the bins: double peonies in deep orchid, circular Mexican daisies in pink, rust and black; a quivering sunburst of pinks and yellows.

Raw silks remind you of bamboo. Here's one in charcoal and white — tell the botanists about that one. A diamond pattern provides an unusual regularity in the usual random raw silk weave. Here's one with a pale coral and a shimmer of silver, combined for quiet drama. A cut silk velvet from France is warm tangerine with an all-over maze pattern to give a lovely tone-on-tone luminescence.

Chan Is Ten

In celebration of his tenth year as a Shopping Center restaurant, Mr. Chan has added four delicacies from the Mandarin cuisine to the large selection of Cantonese dishes served at Chan's restaurant.

You will find, for example, chicken, lobster and ham combined in Mandarin fashion. Shrimp with ham and peas is another new combination. Sizzling hot shrimp with rice would be good one cold evening, and the lobster and chicken ball is good any time.

The Cantonese favorites still remain, of course, to take out or eat right there: Beef Chow Mein: roast pork with Chinese vegetables, Subgum chicken Chow Mein.

During the anniversary weeks, customers will receive free chop sticks and free hors d'oeuvres with luncheon.

SPORTS In Princeton

DING-DONG SEASON DUE

As Quinlet Seeks Balance. A last-second basket that gave Cornell a 70-68 victory at Ithaca Saturday has changed the complexion of the Ivy League basketball race for at least the next five weeks. It could be that the defeat Princeton suffered will keep the outcomb hanging in the balance until the last game on the Tigers' schedule, when they play Penn here on Wednesday, March 3.

All visions of early domination of the title chase, and the first 14-0 record in Ivy history, vanished with the one-point setback at the hands of well-balanced Cornell. Unless the high-scoring Ithacans are unexpectedly upset by a weaker opponent, they should go into their crucial weekend of February 26 and 27 with a 12-0 mark.

Those two days will find them first at the Palestra to play Pennsylvania and, next night, in Dillon Gym to face Princeton. This journey has been the graveyard of Cornell title hopes for years, and chances are they will have to win them both this season to be assured a shot at first place.

Prior to that, the Ithacans cannot help but benefit from the Penn-Princeton meeting at the Palestra a week from Saturday. The loser will have no better than a 3-2 mark, with nine games left. If the Tigers drop that one, it could be that they may undergo the wholly unanticipated experience of losing the Ivy title in Bill Bradley's senior year. team's points.

Help Still Wanted. As was the case in the first weekend of Ivy action, no Princeton player other than Bill Bradley came up with a good performance two nights running. In both the 79-68 victory over Columbia, and the one-point loss to Cornell, Bradley produced more than 50% of his

These were the two-game totals of the other five players who saw the greatest action: Gary Walters, 1-12—13; Ed Hommer, 9-4—13; Don Rodenbach, 10-2—12; Bob Haarlow, 8-2—10; Robby Brown, 0-5—5. This is why the Tigers are in second place, looking up at Cornell, and had it not been for the fabulous overtime performance of Bradley in the Yale game, in which he outscored the entire Eli quintet, 7 to 6, Princeton would be even lower in the standings.

Shooting no better than 27% at Ithaca, when Bradley was as cold as anyone else with a 2 for 17 performance, Princeton fell behind at the half by 39-29. Five minutes into the second period, the Tigers were down by 17 but then Bradley, who has never yet lost his touch for more than half a game, began to roll.

With four minutes to go, Princeton had completely erased the Cornell lead and had taken a 67-66 advantage. The teams traded baskets, and with 1:09 left, it was Princeton, 69-68.

The freeze went just so far before Cornell chose to foul Chris Chimera, and that was the turning point. He missed the first on a one-and-one situation; Cornell controlled the tap on the ensuing jump ball, and eventually gambled for double-or-quits.

Instead of shooting quickly, a share of excitement for the hockey faithful as Princeton's improving hockey team divided a pair of extremely close contests with favored H. F. I. and Dartmouth.

The Tigers won the first, tagging a major upset when they topped the visitors from Troy for the first time in 12 years, but lost the Ivy League title in overtime. Both final scores were 3 to 2.

Princeton never trailed the supposedly better-manned R. P. I. sextet, which included a top goalie in Bill Sonn and an all-American in wing Jerry Knightley. Sophomore Gordon Tadman opened the scoring for the Orange and Black when he batted in a first-period rebound at point-blank range.

The visitors evened the count before the period ended, and then took a 2-1 lead early in the second round. However, Gladman laid the puck on Steve Cook's stick midway through the same session and the Kingston resident rifled it into the cage to bring the Tigers even.

The winning goal was engias normal strategy dictates that the trailing team should, the Red was willing to run out the clock. Sophomore Blaine Alston hit on a 15-foot jumper just before the buzzer, and a last-ditch shot by Bob Haarlow missed.

Trouble at Columbia, Too. There was nothing easy about the victory over Columbia. The home team trailed by only three (36-33) at the half and led by three soon after the intermission. But the Lions were not the team that Cornell is, and Princeton eventually took charge in a manner that it could not duplicate the following night.

Bradley followed his first-half output of 19 at Columbia with 22, while Neil Farber, who had matched his first-period total, tailed off to just four. The Tigers were in trouble largely because they allowed the Lions' Stan Felsinger 25 points, more than double his average output as a sophomore last year.

Inevitably, Bradley continued to make news. When he sank a foul shot ten seconds before the first-half ended at Columbia, it became his 2,000th point. The game was halted while he was presented with the ball.

At Ithaca, some 9,000 packed Barton Hall to capacity, and 2,000 more were turned aside. For additional reports on the Tiger captain's increasing stature as a national sports figure, see box, page 29.

By JOHN F. BERNARD

Another victim of the high prices and inflation spawned by the jet age is Britain's tiny farthing.

The government announced it is being withdrawn from circulation and after the first of the year, the coin will be a memory.

Four farthings, in case you're interested, make a British penny. In American money a farthing is worth nine thirty-seconds of a cent, which means it buys nothing but money-changing problems.

The coin is an ancient article, dating back to the days of King Edward I (1239-1307).

Getting on a subject more up to date—how are you fixed for insurance? Going around with inadequate insurance is as shaky a proposition as a bowlful of jelly in an earthquake. geered at 14:31 of period two, Captain Em Hall scoring to climax intense action in front of the R. P. I. cage. For the final 26 minutes, standout work in the goal by Graeme Flanders was abetted by a Princeton attack that often kept the puck deep in R. P. I. territory.

Same day the Tiger won, forward George Peterson was lost for the season when he underwent an operation in Princeton Hospital for a shoulder separation suffered in the Cornell game four days earlier. The scrappy senior was the team's leading scorer at the time and had earned a place on the first line through his knowledgeable play.

Thin Edge to Dartmouth. After a good first period, in which both teams scored twice, play deteriorated Saturday in the Dartmouth-Princeton game. Neither team was setting up its offense well, and passing was sloppy on both sides during much of the latter part of the game.

As it had against R. P. I., Princeton took the lead early. At 3:18, sophomore Charlie McMillan fired at the Indians' goal and Mike Peterman banged in the rebound. Dartmouth drew even less than three minutes later and at 13:01 took the lead when wing Dean Mathews sank a backhand flip after skating behind the cage.

The McMillan – Peterman combination (with the latter on the scoring end this time) got the Tigers even at 17:48 on another closeup effort, and that was all the scoring until overtime. Accuracy on the part of both teams in the final two regulation periods was so low that each goalie was called on to make only seven saves in the second round, with Dartmouth turning back four Princeton shots in the third and Flanders kicking out only two for the Tigers.

Four minutes into the extra session, Dartmouth besieged the Princeton goal with a five-man assault. Flanders mastered all attempts until Dick Larson of the Green whistled the puck past him at 4:47 on a screened shot from 30 feet out. The victory, Dartmouth's fourth in overtime in its last five games, put it in a tie with Brown for the Ivy lead and raised the Indians' record to 7-2.

Princeton went into the exam break with a 4-9 mark. It will resume action next Thursday, January 28, against Boston College here.

PHS TO OPPOSE EWING
Here Friday Evening. Will the heading fall from grace of the Princeton High School basketball team continue? That and other questions will be answered, hopefully, Friday at 8 when Ewing High school, the one exception in a string of six consecutive away games for the Blue and White, comes to Princeton.

Following the Ewing encounter, PHS will tangle on Tuesday evening with Hamilton to Trenton. This meeting will test the mettle of the Little Tigers for sure. Coached by Charlie Ross, a professional basketball player, the Hornets have defeated just about every one in the county with the exception of Trenton High. To date they have won seven of ten.

Without question, the Little Tigers have lost much of their early season momentum. They have dropped their last three to a row to dip to the .500 mark at 5-5. What's more, they're scoring a lot less.

Until last week, the team's lowest output was 65. Against Steinert, PHS hit for 53 and in its last outing, with Bridgewater Raritan on Friday, it dipped to a new low of 49. Moreover, Coach Tony Borzok has just been confronted with a personnel problem.

Twelve games remain to be played. Accordingly, unless the Little Tigers can right themselves and land on their feet, their current season may turn out to be as dismal as the January weather.

Trounced. Playing without the services of its fine forward, Colin Leitch, visiting PHS was trounced, 81-49, Friday by Bridgewater-Raritan, a team it had upset in its opener here in December. Led by 6-8 Mike Grosso, the Golden Falcons swarmed over PHS in the opening minutes. They raced to a 12-4 lead, and increased it to 19 to 4 at the end of the first period. By half-time, they were nearly out of sight with a 35-12 bulge.

"The score doesn't show one thing," commented Borzok. "Our kids played their hearts out right to the final whistle. We were down by 20 points at the start and another team might have folded. But we kept right on going. The kids played with a spirit I haven't seen all year."

Tony continued: "Heiberger did a terrific job defensively. But how are you going to stop someone 6-8 under the basket? Every time one of his guys would miss a shot, he'd just grab it and stuff it. He must have stuffed 20 shots in all." Grosso, whom Borzok was discussing, tallied 33 points.

"Bridgewater is a good ball club," said Borzok. "They came down here the first time thinking we'd be easy. But we were up for that one and their big boy wasn't in shape. He's a vastly improved player since then."

Wilbur Hines led seven PHS scorers with 17 points. Captain Pete Heiberger connected for 15 and Mike Underwood for nine. Bridgewater's coach, Joe Flaher, did not make a single substitution.

Borzok Denies Reports. As mentioned earlier, Leitch, who had combined with Hines and Heiberger all season to provide the scoring thrust for the Blue and White, did not play. Borzok denied reports that he had dropped Colin from the squad for disciplinary reasons.

"As far as I'm concerned, there's nothing to it. Everybody is trying to make something out of nothing. I'd just like to forget the whole thing." (Leitch and three other players had reportedly missed the bus for a game in Trenton last week.)

There will be no attempt to point the finger at anyone here — only a gentle reminder that both sides are not islands unto themselves.

The followers of the team should be able to see the best PHS team possible; the school should be represented by the best team possible; and the players themselves should be entitled to compete with the best team possible. They deserve no less.

Now that the heat generated by hasty words and hasty deeds has cooled, every effort should be made by all concerned to make this team whole again. As a poet once said, there's nothing sadder than the words, "What might have been."

HUN EDGES SOLEBURY

After Losing First The Hun School basketball team lost its first game of the season last week to George School and then came within a hair's breadth of losing its second to visiting Solebury. As it was, the Red and Black won the latter game, 52-50, to maintain a solid position in second place in the Penn-Jersey League.

On Saturday, coach Bob Simpson's team will travel to Philadelphia for a return match with Bryn A t h y n. a team Hun defeated in December in its opener. On Wednesday, Hun will host Pingry at the Princeton Seminary gymnasium in its only non-league contest of the season.

Speaking about Pingry, Simpson said that although it is not a league game, he would like to win this one because Hun has yet to defeat Pingry in the four years he has served as head coach. He added that reports indicate the present Pingry squad does not match the calibre of its past teams. "So we should have a good chance to win this year," he said.

Against Solebury, only three Hun players managed to get into the scoring column but it proved to be enough. "It's embarrassing to have only three score," said Simpson. "Our two corner men, Paul Vogel and Scott Anderson, were getting shots, they just weren't going in this time. Fotunately, the other three were able to take up the slack."

The big three for Hun were Scott Page with 23; Mike Miller, 19; and Mike Leon, 10. Simpson reported that Page did an excellent job defensing Solebury's leading scorer, holding him to 10 points below his season's average.

Bradley Continues to Fascinate Journalists

Bill Bradley made news again this week, again in a manner that no college basketball player has before.

The current issue of The New Yorker contains a 17,000-word "Profile" on Princeton's scholar-athlete, written by Princetonian John McPhee. Research for the article covered much of the summer, when Bradley came to Princeton from his job in Washington on weekends, and again when he returned from the Olympics in Tokyo.

McPhee, an associate editor of Time magazine and a resident of Drakes Corner Road, also spent several days in August talking to Bradley's friends in Crystal City, Mo. "I wanted to write about him as a person, rather than as an athlete," McPhee said. "I have omitted virtually all the statistical achievements in which he is involved, and have tried to record what makes him unusual as an individual."

A precedent was also set in the current issue of The Sporting News, in which Bradley is the subject of a made one feature—the first such attention paid by the national weekly to a college player. He is portrayed as the first Rhodes Scholar ever to win the hearts of the tough-minded New York basketball fans, and the article concludes by making this point:

"'I don't want to set my ambition as the best professional basketball player or even a good professional basketball player,' Bradley said. 'When I finish basketball, I don't want to be finished with my life.'

"He is involved with sociological problems—'for instance, what causes prejudice in a society that is supposed to be free'

"In other words, he is what so many of us want to tell ourselves we are—he is a thinker."

Cory S. Kammler

Roger Conklin of the Miami Seaquarium said, "Unraveling the secrets still locked in the oceans may mean as much to man as explorations of space. There is more life in the seas than lives on land, with more mysteries than can be counted. We are only at the beginning of this enormous frontier." He said of probably the only living creature with a skeleton outside its body, the tiny seahorse, which is the only known aquatic form of life with a pair of kidneys similar to those in man, and of the amazing Porpoise, which inrigued the ancient Greeks and Romans, but which is only now really being studied. That is a story we'll touch on in another column. Forgive us if we go from Porpoise to purpose, for it is our constant goal to bring you such genuine bargains that you count us as your valued friend. See our values this week! Kammler Buick-Pontiac Co., Route 206 opp. Princeton Airport, 921-2222.

Sports In Princeton

Last Wednesday, at New-town, Pa., unbeaten George School topped Hun, 73-68. Principle reason for Hun's misfortune was the six points scored by the consistently high-scoring Miller.

It wasn't so much that George School stopped Miller as it was he stopped himself, recalled Simpson. "Mike just had a bad game and louled out in the third quarter. But it was the difference."

Page and Leon combined for 49 points to account for the bulk of Hun's points. They led a second period rally that fell short. Hun was behind 39-23 at the half.

In winning, George School emerged at the team to beat in the Penn-Jersey League. Every other league member has lost at least twice except Hun which has a 3-1 mark. "We're still alive and hanging right in there," said Simpson. Hun will get another crack at George School on its home court February 3.

RIDING MASTER NAMED

By Pine Brae. Pine Brae Club has appointed R.R. Butterworth to succeed Major Bela Batthyany as riding master effective February 1. Mayor Buttkay has accept a post with the Montgomery Riding Club, Alabama.

Mr. Butterworth, former assistant manager of the Watchung Stables, Summit, has managed horse shows in the east and was for 15 years an instructor with the Junior Essex Troop.

A Break for the Fans

Football fans who were irritated by the intentional delay-of-the-game penalty that conceives insurmed last fall to stop the clock and thereby change platoons before a punt will find the game more enjoyable in 1965.

The Football Rules Committee has again broadened the substitution rule so that any number of players may be sent into the game whenever the ball changes hands. This will require a coach to kick with his offensive team on the field, but he may insert the defense as soon as the ball is downed.

As in the past, two players may be sent in at any time, so that a kicking specialist can be inserted without a problem. The only other major 1965 rules change raises the height of the kicking tee from one to two inches, a boon for Princeton's Charlie Gogolak and others of lesser ability.

FIRST-PLACE TIE EXISTS

In YMCA Basketball. American Cyanamid climbed into a first-place tie with ETS in the Research and Industrial Basketball League last week by winning a 53-45 decision when the two teams met in the West Windsor School gym.

Clarence Gilbert of ETS topped all scorers with 18 points. The game marked the start of the second half of the season.

In other action, Western Electric defeated Astro, 61 to 43, and ETS trounced the Post Office, 68-27. Paul Harmon of ETS was credited with 32 points in the latter game. The meeting between RCA and Astro was postponed.

The standings:

Cynamid	6	2	.750

Astro	4	3	.571

At Nassau Savings, Ralph D. Hulit, president of Nassau Savings and Loan Association, reported a continued growth pattern for 1964 at the annual meeting on Monday.

Members' savings increased $1,069,311 to a new high of $7,922,000. Mortgage loans went up $1, 078,785 to $7,969,-000 during the year. The number of depositors reached a record high of 3,290, while mortgage loans totaled 627 at year end.

SOMERVILLE TOPS PHS

As Downturn Continues. Perhaps they won't remember his name but the Little Tigers will not soon forget what Somerville's Leon Mintechenko did to them tonight.

Mintechenko personally demolished the visiting Princeton High School quintet by scoring the last eight Pioneer points in a row to gain a 67-64 triumph for his teammates. He hit for eleven points during a fourth-period downswing and had 23 for the afternoon to emerge as the game's high-scorer.

Until Mintechenko went on his rampage, the contest had been nip and tuck. With four minutes to go, Princeton held four-point lead.

Then after PHS coach Tony Borosk abandoned a man-to-man defense, everything went away. PHS couldn't beg, borrow or steal a basket; it even started missing layups. On the other hand, the home team, or rather Mintechenko, couldn't miss.

Once again, Wilbur Hines was the top producer for the Blue and White, scoring 17 this time. In contrast to Mintechenko, however, Hines' production dried up when it was needed most. He got only two points in the final period and an equal number in the third.

Behind Hines was steady Pete Heiberger with 15. Kerry Klink, playing in his second game, scored 12 and was an effective playmaker for the losers. Lou Balestrieri and Roger Madden each connected for eight points.

Despite its gallant effort—it once led by eight points in the first period—PHS lost its fourth in a row. The defeat dropped the Little Tigers below the .500 mark for the first time. Their record now is 5-6.

The victory was Somerville's seventh. It has lost three.

The program includes a talk by Jackson and films of the 1964 Yankee-Cardinal World Series. Baseball League members and their fathers are urged to make their reservations at the Y office by 5 p.m. Thursday. The cost of the dinner is $2.25.

Niederlitz was three under par at the end of the first nine and finished with a 70 to take the $500 first prize by one stroke. In the pro-amateur event, he and Bill Cowser of Springdale fired a best-ball of 33-30—63 which was good for second place.

VALIANTS PLAN DANCE

For New Uniforms. The Princeton YMCA Valiants, a boys' precision drill team, will sponsor a teenage dance Saturday from 8:30 to 1 a.m. at the YMCA building on Avalon Place. The dance is the first in a series designed to help raise funds for the team to purchase new uniforms.

Additional information may be obtained from the Y office or from Bruce Reed, chairman of the sponsoring committee, and Lawson McKloy, director of the Youth Group. On February 6, talent night at the Y, the drill team will perform.

SCHOOLS ARE TOPIC

For League Members. Members of the League of Women Voters, who have been studying the Borough and Township Schools for many months, will report at unit meetings scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday.

"A study of the alternatives available to the Borough School Board if the Township School Board terminates the present high school sending district relationship" is the title of the Borough study group's project. Discussions will be held Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. at the Methodist Church, and on Wednesday at 8:30 at the home of Mrs. Harry Kahn, 20 Linden Lane. Babysitting service at a nominal charge will be available at the Tuesday meeting.

The Township's study of alternatives for its school board will be presented Tuesday at 8:30 at the home of Mrs. Reimeo Favreau, 531 Lake Drive, and Wednesday at 10 a.m., at the home of Mrs. Lester Chandler, 85 Westerly Road.

The "ABCs" of local government will be the topic of discussion for the Montgomery Township unit, which will meet Wednesday at 8 at the home of Mrs. Robert Hoedemaker, Cherry Hill Road.

LECTURES PLANNED

At New School for Music. Informal lecture-recitals will be inaugurated at the New School for Music Study at 4 p.m. Sunday, January 31.

David Krathenmeil, theorist and composer, is musical commentator and coordinator of the series, which is titled "An Appreciation of Keyboard Styles." Staff members will perform the works to be discussed.

The four programs on successive Sunday are designed for the parents of children who are, or will be, piano students. This Sunday's program will feature music of the Baroque and early classic periods.

The public is welcome to attend. There is no admission charge. Further information may be obtained by calling the school, 921-2990.

MS FUND DRIVE BEGUN

A tea for 50 field workers was held Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Roberts. Speaker at both meetings was Mrs. Margaret Heffinger, executive director of the Central New Jersey chapter of the society.

"I'm Reading This Wonderful Book . . ."

Variety stretches the reading pleasure of Princeton this month as TOWN TOPICS' four book outlets report on the community's best-seller. It's everybody from Hammerskjold to Phyllis Mc Ginley:

FICTION

"Herzog," Saul Bellow. (Male's Book Shop, Public Library). "Can't keep up with the demand says the library.

"Funeral in Berlin," L. Deighton. (Princeton Book Mart). Everybody loves a spy.

"Hurry Sundown," K. B. Gilden. (University Store). Just shows what a good review will do for a book.

NON-FICTION

"Markings," Dag Hammerskjold. (Male's Book Shop)

"Sixpence in Her Shoe," Phyllis McGinley. (Princeton Book Mart, University Store).

"My Favorite Things." Dorothy Rodgers. (Public Library) A pleasant, feminine book, the kind any housewife could publish if her father were Richard Rodgers.

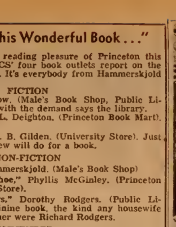
RECOMMENDED. . . . .

"No Cause for Panic," Russell Baker. (Male's Book Shop) See? You needn't have clipped "Observer" from the Times after all.

"Hurry Sundown," K. B. Gilden. (Princeton Book Mart)

"Queen Victoria," Elisabeth Longford. (University Store) An engaging biography of a woman not always so engaging.

"The Kennedy Years," Harold Faber. (Public Library). A balanced biography treating both his public and his family life.



I FEEL LIKE I'M NINE FEET TALL: And he is. This amiable-looking snowman is the work of Thomas Gillette, 76 Clay Street, who reported construction required two hours. Undoubtedly, Mr. Gillette drew on his war-time experience as a cartoonist for the Amarillo Air Force Base newspaper. (Staff Photo)

ENGLISH COUNTRY STYLE
Set high on a perfectly private wooded acre in the lovely northwest Township, this delightful brick house somehow has an English country air about it. Perhaps it's because of the settled look; maybe it's the interesting roofline and wings; it could be the landscaping — terraces on different levels, ivy everywhere, etc.
Inside the outstanding features are a striking living room with cathedral ceiling, large fireplace, exposed beams and a gourmet's dream of a kitchen — shiny, new and compact. Four nice bedrooms, two baths, dining room and potential basement playroom add up to a goodly amount of house for the price in this Princeton day and age.

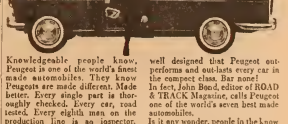
Degrees agree on Peugeot!



Knowledgeable people know, Peugeot is one of the world's finest made automobiles. They know Peugeots are made different. Made better. Every single part is thoroughly checked. Every car, road tested. Every eighth man on the production line is an inspector. The powerful, all-new engine is so well designed that Peugeot outperforms and out-lasts every car in the compact class. Bar none!

In fact, John Bond, editor of ROAD & TRACK Magazine, calls Peugeot one of the world's seven best made automobiles.

Is it any wonder, people in the know choose Peugeot! Shouldn't you?

THOMPSON EXCLUSIVE

can make this gracious COLONIAL the showplace of the area. It's situated on 17 acres with plenty of old trees and a circular drive. The picturesque setting near Griggstown with the Millstone River just across the road assures privacy and quiet country living forever . . . and yet Princeton is just ten minutes away.

There are nine rooms on the first floor so you can be the "decision maker" as to which room will be the library, den, game room or whatever. There are three bedrooms on the second floor and a storage attic. The Colonial atmosphere is accentuated by the two narrow passageways on opposite sides of this home. Both these passageways go up and lead to unfinished rooms.

The house is located on the acreage in such a way that building lots could be sold to owner's advantage. A TRULY GOOD INVESTMENT.

ELECTRIC LIVING GUIDE

All rights reserved © T. Dickinson & Co., Inc. New York

NO "DILLER-DOLLAR"

"A diller . . . a dollar, a ten O'clock scholar."

"No, not 'Diller' as meaning the comedians named Phyllis. . . and no ten o'clock scholar as meaning me.

"Since we changed over to electric heat three years ago, our house is fit for a human being even when those crack-of-dawn college courses come on. And believe me, I credit the heating system as much as the television set for making it possible."

The up-with-the-larks housewife probably never realized that a house that could be really liveable in the small hours would have her back hitting the books again.

Yet there's also a good chance she never before understood what the Electric Heat Industry is prating about when it talks, writes — maybe even sings? — the praises of electric heat as "flexible, the ultimate in comfort."

For electric heat, its users attest, certainly is flexible with its room-by-room thermostat controls and speedy warming up. (No ducts, no pipes, "no travel-distance, and no travel-time.") Unlike systems with pipes and ducts, electric heating is delivered right at the room. In addition to the speed of light, there's no waste. It's all transferrable, point out users, into comfort, immediate comfort.

Yet this is accomplished via units which never become more than comfortably warm themselves to the touch.

Age of miracles? Sounds it. . .but actually modern houses entitled to wear Gold Medallion Certificates are pretty substantial. "Not only will a breeze not blow them away, it won' even blow in. Whre builders of new, or reconditioners of old, electric heated houses go by the book, you're going to have a 'tight house'. . .one that's built to last," according to an electrical contractor.

"I'd match the sturdiness of a modest electrically heated home with an old castle. Pity, though, that those old castles can't match our Gold Medallions for comfort."

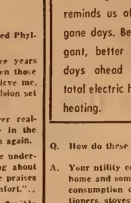
Incidentally "the book" mentioned by the contractor isn't just a figure of speech. It's an actual booklet compiled by the National Mineral Wood Association spelling out the specifics of construction and insulation which assure maximum utilization of fuel.

QUESTION BOX

Q. Is the ten-payment plan for electricity for heating available everywhere?

A. You'll find it in the area from which you write. . . and as a matter of fact we feel safe in going out on the limb that says "yes, almost everywhere." Electric utility companies find that this service to you is also good for them.

UP-DATE... Decw, INC. ANTIQUE HEATING NOW!



This elegant relic reminds us of bygone days. Be elegant, better your days ohead with total electric home heating.

Q. How do these spread-out fuel payments work?

A. Your utility company after a careful look-see at your home and some information on your living habits and consumption of electricity for everything, air conditioners, stoves, washers, toasters, etc., including lamps for illumination) estimates approximately what your yearly use of electricity for all other uses as well as heat will be from September to June. Then they divide it in 10 equal parts, send you even-sized bills ten times a year and there you are. If you use more you're billed, but not until the low-electricity-consumption month of July. Chances are, unless you've changed something in your living pattern, you'll be coming out even or getting a credit. We keep hearing how amazed consumers are at the accuracy of the estimate.

Q. Is electricity expensive for heating?

A. It is considered so any more, says our utility company friend. "You'll find it's competative." He asks that we add. ."and please make it clear that there are pluses you can't even measure in money terms. If you take our advice and deal with an electric contractor who also respects sound installation you can be sure you get to bask in all that good electrical heat you pay for. There's no waste and no other system can say it."

Q. Is the kind of electric heat used in motels the same as or different from that for home use? My husband and I got our first taste of electric heating when we were traveling. I'd like to investigate it as a possibility for the house we plan to build.

A. Some of the equipment is identical to what's used in homes, with electrical baseboards having the popularity edge for both. But you don't need the brand name of your motel-type. All you need to get equipment that's top notch is to contact an electrical contractor who specializes in electric heat. He'll choose what's right. For example, maybe an electric ceiling is a better choice for one room, and the baseboards for another.

If You Are Planning To Build, Buy or Remodel Call Any One Of The Contractors Listed Below. He'll Give You All The Facts On Total Electric Home Heating.

Hall, living room, dining room, guest room or study and kitchen on first floor. Second floor: 4 bedrooms, 1 bath. Back yard is deep and private, with old shade trees. $22,500

LIKE THE COUNTRY? . . . here is a beautiful home in a grand woodsy setting which could be the ideal place for a couple determined to retire in comfort and style, or for two young people who plan to begin their wedded life as close to Princeton as possible, but far enough away so that they can learn all about the joys of country life. Living room 14 x 28 with a stone fireplace. Modern kitchen. 2 bedrooms, 1 bath. The house is a good ways back from the road, on one and three-quarter acres. (sole agent) $38,500

IN THE BOROUGH . . . on one of Princeton's quietest tree-lined streets, this beautiful Contemporary home has a large living room with fireplace, a study, separate dining room and a very modern work area with kitchen and laundry. The bedroom wing has master bedroom with dressing room and bath, and two other bedrooms and bath. Living areas are spacious and designed to give full scope to your talents as a decorator. This is a very special home in one of the most desirable parts of the Western Section. $58,000

IN THE WOODS . . . secluded and quiet, on a circle in the Township, with a little gem of a swimming pool and a very pretty garden, this comfortable one-story home has living room with fireplace, kitchen with eating bar and dishwasher, family room with outside entrance and a bar, 3 bedrooms, 1 bath. House is in excellent condition. $27,750

TRULY RURAL . . . the days are getting longer, and soon Spring will be with us, making that old dream of living 'way out in the country so important that it almost becomes an ache . . . Well, here in one of the most beautiful, and unspoiled, valleys in the East — and just over the Sourland Mountain from Princeton — is a real farm. Barns for almost a hundred cows (or cattle, if your dream includes a herd of Black Angus steers). 234 acres of rolling farm land. 20 acres of wood lot. A 2½ acre pond where the children can fish in Summer and skate in Winter. A beautiful well which has never gone dry. And from your own house, snug under tall shade trees, a breath-taking view of your own fruitful acres . . . The century-old dwelling has a grand old country kitchen, completely modernized, beautiful old floors and a fireplace in almost every room. Also, on the first floor, a brand new apartment (for mother-in-law, or for that couple you may want to keep house for you). Upstairs: 5 bedrooms, 2 baths. $175,000

ANNOUNCING

THE MGB was overall winner in The Grand Touring Category at the 1964 Monte Carlo Rally. It's an outstanding example of the effect of racing experience on sports car design. With top speed in excess of 105 mph, the MGB also provides the comfort of foam bucket seats, roll-up windows, quick-stowing top, and roomy trunk.

Unique East-West engine with front-wheel drive . . . disc brakes. More power, more safety, more maneuverability . . . more economy and more usable space . . . a 5-passenger car with 6-loader leg room. Now in 2 and 4-door models.

You are cordially invited . . . to see and drive these exciting new cars now at our showroom. You'll be pleased by the wide selection, crisp styling, and impressive performance of these machines and by their very realistic price tags. We look forward to your visit.
